

Moody 64, 2004

The Moody 64 is the largest and, at the time, still built in England, ocean-going yacht with all the comforts for long, comfortable, and fast journeys. This Moody has only been sailed in the Baltic Sea and briefly in the North Sea. It has seen very little use, as the owner had multiple ships, and now, due to illness, he must sell his Moody 64.

This is a great opportunity to acquire a large yacht of absolutely impressive build quality, available immediately from Sweden. More pictures will be coming soon.
