

Grand Soleil 43, 2007

The Grand Soleil 43 is a modern, high-quality, and performance-oriented cruising sailboat that is also well-suited for offshore racing. This yacht guarantees an excellent sailing experience for even the most demanding sailors, without compromising on comfort or Italian style. The boat is in excellent condition and has been carefully maintained. A condition survey was conducted in the spring of 2025.

Sailing is comfortable even with a small crew, as all lines are elegantly led aft under the deck. However, the spacious cockpit easily accommodates a larger crew as well. The hull has been reinforced with a steel frame, which makes it really solid and firm. The yacht is fast and well-balanced, with a long waterline and relatively light structure ensuring good speed even in light winds.

The interior offers great comfort and ample space. The forward cabin is designed as the owner's cabin, featuring a large bed and a private WC/shower area. In the aft section, there are two spacious cabins that are mirror images of each other. The saloon provides an open and cozy social area with a large seating group and a well-equipped galley. The chart table offers an excellent workspace for navigation. Thanks to its well-planned interior layout, the yacht is well-suited for two families or small groups.
